Dear firewall,

A PDF of this email will be produced. It will be on all future video discs and online. Don't continue to embarrass yourself by censoring this now.

DJ,

This is an example of why I am so disgusted with the firewall between us. Below is what I sent you on March 13, 2016. Your email suggests you have never seen it. It suggests that my love for you and Julia was censored. I feel bullied! It hurts!

I love you. I wrote this email below because I love you and still desire this for us. I'm so very glad to hear you like the song too. I'm interested in living it out. I can't do it alone. Do you want to join me?

I really do love you!!!!!!!

--- March 13, 2016 --- almost two months ago!

DJ and Julia,

The two of you have been intensely on my mind since Julia and I spoke on Friday. It hurts what has happened to the family I love and to know the two of you are at odds makes it all the worse.

I just had a good prayer with a friend about our families and the two of you in particular. While I so desire restored relationships between both of you and me, I will gladly forgo that if this is the price to see the two of you restored as a loving mother and daughter. I truly desire that for the two of you.

While obedience to the Lord is that we are all restored, may it please begin between the two of you. I love you both.

During the conversation with my friend Chris, he said that he heard on the radio for the first time a song from Casting Crowns called Broken Together. I was unfamiliar with it and found it on the web at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=RhxELo-uD3c>.

It is the story of the life of a couple with struggles. At the 4 minute and 8 second mark is 1Co7:11 lived out. I can't do this, but I again ask for it. Seven seconds later I was crushed as it showed so well what I desire more than anything in this world. I have been in a pool of tears for the first time in well over a year. The photo below is from that moment. Does it remind you of another photo?

Again I desire this more than anything in this world. Would the two of you please do what you can to at least restore the relationship between the two of you! There is nothing in this world worth more than relationships. Please look at each other in love.

I love you both. I welcome you both.

John,

I have forgiven you for the many times that we were forced to moved and the instability of our family and home-life.

I personally have also forgiven you for tempting us with many things while not delivering them. And I am grateful to accept your apology.

(I said, "I personally," because the children have also been greatly hurt, and I cannot speak for them--though I choose to disciple them in the Truth, which includes forgiveness.)

One of the girls noticed that you put "Broken Together" on the newest tablet that you sent. Her question was, "Does Dad know that you like that song?" I told her that I did not believe that you would know that I like that song and that I did not know why you included it--or where you even came across it to hear it. - We would be curious to know how you came across it and why it was important enough to you to include it.

DJ,

I just watched a guy walk up the stairs with a callous look on his face while his lady said "where were you?" He just continue walking and you could see tears forming in her eyes. I wanted to slug him, but resisted. What he did was cruel. The wonderful gift of a relationship should not be handled that way.

I have failed in offering you a stable home. I have failed in tempting you with so much of this world and not delivering. I'm sorry. I failed you. I appeal again for your forgiveness.

Would you please consider communicating with me?

I love you!
