Subject: Baghdad killings video projected onto UK parliament in support of Assange

Family,

The timing is amazing. It appears that last night a group projected some video on the side of both the UK Parliament building and Belmarsh prison where Julian Assange is currently incarcerated without charge in isolation. It was a rather provocative thing to do. I am referring to the video. The incarceration is simply cruel, which is something I can relate to.

They used a few seconds from the Collateral Murder video. What is so fascinating is that some of the same few seconds of the same video can be seen in: “An explanation of who a husband must love as the Lord requires”.

They also used a couple other clips that I have used previously. Also the “nice” expression from the video has been commented on by me in the past. Perhaps a similar mindset?

Julian Assange is in prison for exposing the foul deeds of several governments, including the US, and other large institution, such as the Roman Catholic Church.

He is not a follower of Christ, but has followed part B of Ephesians 5:11 “Take no part in the unfruitful works of darkness, but instead expose them.” I am a follower of Christ and part A is something I embrace. Part B also. As the Lord allows, watch it happen.

I love you all!
