Mr. Cross and Family,

If you want an example of great marketing, the attached video is not it. If you want an example of love on the other hand...

Perhaps you missed the voicemail from yesterday, but be of good cheer, it can be listened to and downloaded, such as several web crawlers do, at: <http://family.kozlowski.org/Voicemail-2020-03-27>

You might hear from the tone and read in the accompanying email a bit of forcefulness as I have a serious concern for my family. Do members of my family live in fear in this current “panic-demic”? The term “panic-demic” was coined by my friend Chris Prince and I find it instructive.

It seems clear that I am in better health than most young people, including me when I was young. What I have seen is an unwillingness in most to live a lifestyle that keeps you healthy. While it seems clear it is mostly due to diet, the plan for tomorrow is another 4 to 7 mile hike which will get me past the marathon distance of aggressive walking for the week. I wonder if anyone in my family could come near to that.

In the voicemail I listed several points of concern about what I have heard from Jim Cross. I stated that I was going to get more serious, and you might find this video to be just that. We are approaching 8 years and I will not give up until I am dead. Considering my state of health, unless I slip on a banana during a hike, I might be doing this until a whole lot of others are dead. Wouldn't it be better to reconcile than die to avoid me. If you succeed in avoiding me, you might have some issues post death explaining what you did to avoid reconciliation.

The objective is to go through the list of issues presented in yesterday's voicemail and accompanying email. This video discusses Jim Cross referencing a man who used the Talmud to give license for Dorothy-Jane to abandon her commitment in marriage, the woman I remain in love with and married to and she to me according to the Bible.

Especially in the last many years I have done serious study on several documents that claim to be of divine origin. The Bible clearly is in that list, and I would contend is the only one truly on that list. I have read the Quran and find it far more enlightening and rational than the others, but still a false document. The bit I have read from the Book of Mormon and Doctrines and Covenants has convinced me that this is completely irrational, but the people I know that follow it are friends who I care for. On the far bottom of the list is the Talmud. I have only read a bit and WOW is it a clear example of the wisdom of man out for the glory of man. It is disgusting.

It seems to me if I was a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ, I would show that by following the Lord Jesus Christ as would be seen in an attempt to be obedient to Him. When I read the Bible, such as the Mark 7:7 verse mentioned in the video, I might realize that the Lord is pointing me to things I should avoid using as my reference. I should repudiate it. Mr. Cross, would you agree? Your actions thus far say no.

So let me be clear, Mark 7:7 is the Lord Jesus Christ calling those who follow the Talmud hypocrites over two hundred years before it went from verbal to paper. It would follow that those who use the Talmud today are being described as hypocrites today. Mr. Cross, are you a hypocrite? Please be clear. Are you willing to publically confess allegiance to Christ alone and repudiate the Talmud, or are you going to continue to cower in silence out of fear. Are you living scared of the “panic-demic”?

I am going to press on through the list from Friday. This is public, and since web crawlers get it, it is searchable. A friend has asked for a DVD and I plan on sending it Monday. Do you want one? Does anyone else in the family, or outside of the family want one?

I suggest there are one of two ways to bring this to a conclusion. You could kill me. Or the second preferable way is to start the process of reconciliation with me. As I make clear, you are a foul disgusting man, and so am I. Let us together be an example to our family and others of what two men who claim to be followers of the Lord Jesus Christ will do in obedience to Christ. What legacy do you want?

Please remember, that you and I will both make serious mistakes in our dialog toward reconciliation. We are called to do so anyway, offer each other grace in the process, and endure to the end. I am committed to doing that. Are you?

Final point. It is my hope that I will be able to continue my aggressive walking for the rest of my days. Even more, I desire to casually walk hand-in-hand with my lady for the rest of my days. I love her dearly.

Respectfully,

John Kozłowski
