Susanna,

Yes, it is the annual event where the dad punishes his kid by singing to them. I'm sorry, it is your time. Unfortunately the way

I held the table computer covered the microphone, so you can hear, but it is muffled. Perhaps that is a good thing. I hope you both hear and understand the last part of the video.

More seriously, you need a dad and I just happen to be that person. While I have been blocked access to you I do remain available for you if you can get past the barriers. There is no barrier put up by me, but just open arms and a welcoming attitude.

A set of two DVDs went in the mail to you yesterday, as the attached video shows. When I returned from a hike, the mailbox was empty, so I assume it is likely in your PO Box today. The DVDs contain the videos thus far in the Reconcile 30 series I have been doing. This will allow you to see what I have done specifically to you, to your siblings, to Jim Cross, the family in general, and most especially your mom.

As with the tie I sent to George that was returned to me unclaimed, I have little doubt a similar occurrence will happen. You will probably never see this, or perhaps it will be years until you do. But it is here, shared, and copied. This was spoken about in voicemail #899 yesterday. All of this is of course online.

Somehow I need to get to you, my daughter Susanna, the idea that your dad loves you, never abandoned you, and is seeking to reconcile the family. I hope one day you find that out and join me in that effort.

One other thing to you in particular. Since you are now 17, your heart and mind might turn to a particular young gentleman. That might already be happening. Please take it seriously and joyfully. Consider what is described in Titus 2 and live it. Remember my now often repeated refrain "marriage begins with sex and ends with death". I hope you understand that and embrace that. I defend that from Scripture, but those around you will not address it, but simply tuck their Talmud between their legs and run, or call the police. But, I hope you are embraced by the Lord and He will bless you with a heart for one man alone and the joy of a lifetime with him.

Susanna, Happy Birthday! May the Lord bless you this day! Your dad loves you!
