My Lady, and Family,

I was reminded today how we can be so clumsy when we are trying to do good to someone or be polite. As described in the video that happened again to me today and I'm still trying to do better at it.

It makes me think about my wife and why she sent me an email yesterday. If it was showing the love I have seen from her in years past, then this clumsy guy will continue to do clumsy things in his clumsy way to reconcile his relationship with the Lord's most precious creation, the lady He spent a bit of extra time making just right, the wonderful woman I call my wife.

Remember the guy who has continued for over 900 voicemails is trying to reconcile his family. The guy who when he got to top of Big Frog Mountain had one focus that I shared with the world, to tell my wife I love her! The guy who repeatedly showed where his heart was when he moved. The guy who unwaveringly publicly states that he has one lady, will always have only one lady, remains totally in love with and committed to his lady, and so very much wants his lady back. The kids would also be a good idea.

If any of this resonates with you, please do as I asked in the voicemail email yesterday and send me a photo of Walter and Zadok so I can tell them apart. They are my sons. I am their dad. You are my wife. I am your husband. Let us all be an example of what it is to love. Please!
