Subject: Jesus and Divorce (and Remarriage) - A Voice In The Desert

Mr. Cross,

A long time ago you sent me some links to videos about marriage and divorce, which included using the Talmud as a reference. You never responded to my subsequent enquiries.

Allow me to offer you another third party video by "A Voice In The Desert" titled "Jesus and Divorce (and Remarriage)".

While I do find some minor issues with the video, as someone who thinks and willing to engage in dialog (see the Berea example in Acts 17), the fundamentals are solid. The issue is that those in the institutional church who don't live these principles, including leadership at Meadowview, which the video refers to, will ignore this, as you have for years.

The very simple line "marriage begins with sex and ends with death" can be easily backed up with Scripture to those willing to look. Those who want the Lord and the world, as you specifically have stated, will compromise on what the Lord commands and use lines like "Lord, Lord, didn't we do wonderful things in your name?"

You obviously don't want to engage me because, as you state, you don't think that fast. I suggest that is an excuse for being a prideful unloving man, don't you?

While I will continue my reconciliation effort with you until it happens or one of us is dead, my assumption is you will continue to plug your ears and your heart. But if your heart remains like stone, mine will remain in love with my family and I will, as the Lord allows, make the effort to contact them, especially the younger kids, to let them know that the person who loves their mom is not Jim Cross, but their dad! More videos are going online, with especially BitChute traffic growing, contacts are being made, preparations for distributing DVDs are in place, and distributing a large number of printed versions of the now 300 page voicemail email is on the table. My plans are set before you. If it gets to this, your legacy is toast. So much for Legacy Builders.

There is another option that Jesus makes clear and I have asked for a large number of times. Please join me in a serious effort toward reconciliation. Please point your daughter, my wife, to the commands of the Lord, such as found in 1Co7:11. Please act as if you believe the Bible is true. Please remember the greatest two commandments of the Lord: love and love. You are failing at both. Do you have time to repent?
